Queen Candidates' Posters Disappear

Campaign posters of the various Carnival Queen Candidates have been disappearing. The posters first appeared on Tuesday.

In some cases only the pictures of the candidates were removed from the posters. Most of them, however, simply disappeared.

This vandalism has not been restricted to any one building. The damage is just as great at the top of the campus in Douglas Hall as on the lower campus in the Union.

Over an hour's work has gone into the production of some of the posters, not including the time or the cost involved in the pictures. Because of this the campaign managers have asked that this practice be curtailed.

Dr. John Stanley Talks At Hillel

The Meet-the-Faculty luncheon discussions sponsored by Hillel will have its guest today Dr. John Stanley, Professor of Zoology at McGill University, a prominent scientist and research scholar. He will lead a group discussion on "An Inquiry Into The Meaning of an Education".

Born in London, England, Dr. Stanley received his undergraduate degree at the University of British Columbia, and his M. A. and Ph. D. degrees at the University of Minnesota. He taught at Queen's University prior to his joining the McGill Faculty. He is Chairman of the Biological Science Group in the Faculty of Arts and Science, as well as of the Department of Zoology.

This event will take place at Hillel House, 3460 Stanley Street, at 1 pm and all are cordially invited.

CARNIVAL DEBATE TOPIC IS WORTH OF OLYMPICS

"Resolved that the Olympic Games do more to promote International tension" will be under discussion this Friday and Saturday at the Carnival debate. Debating will begin Friday afternoon and the finals will be held on Saturday afternoon. The debating will take place in the Arts Building.

The Buccari Trophy will be awarded to the victorious team. This trophy has been donated to the Carnival Debate winner by a former student from India, who was greatly interested in debating while in college.

Upholding McGill in the debate will be Claude Armand-Sheppard and Anne Peacock. Both Miss Peacock and Mr. Armand-Sheppard have had a great deal of debating experience and they, as well as the visiting teams, seem enthusiastic about the choice of topic.

American as well as Canadian University debating teams will be fighting for the Buccari Trophy. University of Pittsburg, Loyola College, University of New Brunswick, McMaster, Royal Military College, Marionapolis, and Williams will take the affirmative side of the argument, while Cornell, Bishops, Queen's, University of Toronto, Royal Military College, St. Patricks, Georgetown School of Foreign Service will oppose them. Carnival debating chairman Roy Heenan said that there is also a possibility that Rutgers, Carnegie Institute of Technology, John Hopkins Institute, and Mount Allison may be joining the inter-university debate.

Steve Woodman At Radio Workshop

The Radio Workshop will meet on Tuesday, February 14 in the Union Workshop at 1 pm. Guest speaker will be Steve Woodman, who will speak on night radio.

PETITION CONDEMNS ALABAMA STUDENTS

A petition condemning the action of University of Alabama students against Miss Autherine Lucy is now being circulated on the campus. This petition is a result of an editorial which appeared in the Daily yesterday which asked the students of McGill to extend an invitation to Miss Lucy to come here to study.

Miss Lucy is the first negress ever to attend the University of Alabama. Ever since her entrance the students at that university have not allowed her any of the ordinary rights and have pelted her with stones and rotten eggs until they forced her to leave the University.

The Norwegian Student's Association has offered her a two year scholarship at the University of Oslo. The Daily editorial asked McGill students to take a similar action.

Mr. Ralph Ordower, head of the External Affairs Department of the S.E.C. started the following petition.

WHEREAS action at the University of Alabama directed against Miss Autherine Lucy is one of concern to students of McGill University;

WHEREAS these students recognize the difficult racial situation in parts of Alabama, but feel that University students with the benefits of higher education should be moving away from rather than towards racial animosity;

THEREFORE; we the undersigned call upon the S.E.C. of McGill University to authorize the External Affairs Department to write a letter to University of Alabama Students' Society condemning them for allowing the events of the past week to have taken place.

Ralph Ordower added, "We want to praise Miss Lucy for the very courageous stand which she has taken. To invite her here, however, would be to ask her to withdraw from the battle which she is so gallantly fighting."

S.E.C. HOLDS OPEN MEETING

There will be an open meeting of the S.E.C. in the Union Club Room on Wednesday, February 15, at 7:15 pm. This will be a regular business meeting of the S.E.C. to which all students are invited as spectators.

Mt. Royal Night To Be Televised

McGillians attending the Mt. Royal Night proceedings will have a chance to see themselves on the CBC "Our Town" program next Monday night at 6:30 pm.

The Benoit-DeTonnaucou Films Company, finding that the SGWC Carnival would not fill up 15 minutes of reel has decided to supplement proceedings there with films of our own activities on Thursday night.

This will not be McGill's first appearance on the program, which is the longest-running Montreal presentation on CBC-TV. Two previous programs have been devoted to the Stormy weather research group, Cyclotron, Redpath Museum, and the Psychiatric work being done at the Allen Memorial Institute.

FOR FEMALES

Fashions For '56

The 1956 look in women's fashions was displayed last night at the Women's Union Fashion Show held in the Union Ballroom. Fashions from the France-Del Shop were shown, along with hats from Margo-Helene and shoes from Johnny Brown.

The new look in spring suits, coats, afternoon dresses, and cocktail dresses was shown by the twelve models, all of them McGill students. Bathing suits, summer ensembles, and summer cocktail dresses were a highlight of the show. The climax of the evening came with the showing of bride-maids' and wedding dresses.

Among the features of the fashions were cotton lace sewn on taffeta, and the Chinese look in dresses and coats. The big look and the front look in hats were evident, as was the simplicity of many of the styles.

The fashions are priced within the average college budget range. Proceeds from the Fashion Show went to the University Settlement and Health Centre.

CLUE-BOOK OMISSION

At the beginning of this year an admirable "Clue-Book" for freshettes was issued, which had, however, one serious omission. Missing was the warning that should have read:

"Never cross Sherbrooke Street outside the Union, especially if you are shy or in a hurry."

The figure of the policeman outside the Union stands out among the landmarks of McGill as familiar and as permanent as the stone building around him. Traffic comes and traffic goes, but the policeman stands there for ever. Where the traffic stops, a pedestrian is allowed to cross half-way over; then at a wave the cars hurtle by on either side, and the victim is imprisoned in the centre of Sherbrooke Street.

We hasten to reassure any nervous freshettes that the policeman means no harm. He is merely lonely. And he has a friendly and communicative nature.

During the course of several attempts to cross Sherbrooke, we have learned that he plays the kettle-drums and the clarinet. He takes size 13 boots and has a 15-day holiday a year. Recently he has been having trouble with his wife. Once a week he goes out with a Scottish girl who has blue eyes and teaches him English.

Like the traffic lights, our policeman is a permanent fixture of Sherbrooke Street. He is always there. He says he works a 6-hour day, but we suspect this is an understatement to comply with regulations. For four and a half years he has been there, a half-way mark between the students and their Union. If he leaves McGill before us, we shall miss him.

AN ACTIVE PART

The Autherine Lucy controversy raging in Alabama has aroused a considerable amount of interest on this campus. There are presently petitions circulating asking that the McGill Students' Society take an active part in the proceedings by publically supporting Miss Lucy's cause while deprecating the actions of the students of the University of Alabama. The Architecture Undergraduate Society, in fact, has taken the initiative by including with its motion a token sum of $10 to be presented to Miss Lucy to aid her in her campaign. The AUS further advocates that the SEC, and the students as a body, take similar action to raise a fund for Autherine Lucy.

The AUS is to be highly commended for its thought and interest. However, we wonder whether the proposed fund will not serve a greater purpose if used another way.

Autherine Lucy has the backing of many wealthy organizations. It is safe to assume that the proposed gesture while expressing great sincerity, will not genuinely make any contribution towards her campaign. A much warmer thought would be the establishment of a bursary and an invitation to Miss Lucy to consider studying at McGill aided by the fund. In the event that she cannot accept, the bursary could be offered to another Southern Negro student of similar background.

Letters to the Editor

AUS Alabama Motion

Sir:

I would like to draw the attention of the student body at large to the following motion passed unanimously at a general meeting of the Architecture Undergraduate Society on February 13, 1956.

Moved that the AUS instruct its representative on the SEC to call upon the Executive of the Students' Society to follow the example of the Normanton students, by sending a message expressing our sympathy and moral support to Miss Lucy, who is being prevented from continuing her studies at Alabama University as a result of racial discrimination, and urge her wholeheartedly to go on with her fight in which she and we so strongly believe.

The AUS also offers a token of $10 which the SEC may incorporate in a donation which we suggest they make to aid her cause.

Harry Kantt,
Sec'y, AUS.

Full House?

Sir:

Last Thursday the Don Cossacks, a well known Russian male choir, was scheduled to sing in the spacious interior of Plateau Hall. They were late, 15 minutes, 20 minutes, half an hour, while the music and Cossack lovers, three dollars poorer, flocked in and flooded the already full hall, and the ticket sale went on and on and on!

Finally the lights went out, the roar was hushed and the curtain rose to expose to the audience — not the Don Cossacks, not an empty stage, but alas — a mirror-like image of the audience itself! One hundred people, who obviously could not be squeezed among the 50 or so already standing at the back of the hall, on the sides and crowding the fire escapes, were sitting on the stage waving at their friends in the orchestra.

Sir, I confess that as this whole sad drama was being drowned in laughter I did not think that the concert profits were increased by some $300.00 or that it was just amusing. I did not even bother to think why those people were there or how they got there. All that I was capable of wondering was: "Which audience will the chorus face, us or them?"

Everything else that I could say at this point has, I suppose, been said ad infinitum, but I shall just venture to add that I was ashamed, ashamed for the one and three quarter million Montrealers who are forced to hear their concerts, operas, and plays under conditions such as those which I have depicted above.

Alexandra Kail, B.A. III.

A Protest

Sir:

I have noticed a sad lack in the basement of the Arts Building. There is a rather room with two doors, identified only by the numerals 50. While I admit that University students are expected to be of superior intellect, I would earnestly like to inquire how any person, no matter what his intellectual level, is to know that "50" stands for the Men's Washroom. Is this some sort of code?

SKI TEAM ENTERS GABRIEL MEET

On Winter Carnival Weekend, Mont Gabriel will be the site of the Intercollegiate Skiing Championships. McGill's representatives will be defending the title they won last year.

On hand at the meet will be the busloads of McGill students who will leave for Gabriel from Roddick Gates at 9 am, Friday, the 17th. The first event on the skiing program will be the always spectacular jumping competitions, at the Redbird Ski-jump. In the afternoon, the slalom is scheduled over a course set by the noted skier, Bob Richardson. Saturday will see the downhill and cross-country contests run off.

Trophies to be competed for are the U. of M. trophy and, for the skimeister, the Redbird trophy. The Redmen team will consist of Reid, Austin, Elder, Barstow and Powell. These boys are heavy favorites to repeat last year's victory, but close competition is expected from Laval, minus Andre Bertrand, as well as from the other colleges in the meet, Ryerson, U. of M., Varsity, Queen's, and RMC.

POST-MORTEM

by Irwin Sankoff

There is a sign above the door of the dressing room of the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey team in Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto which says, "Defeat Does Not Rest Lightly On Their Shoulders." This motto, or slogan, could very well have applied to the McGill Redmen hockey team after their 7-6 loss to the University of Montreal last Saturday night. The weary team trooped into the dressing room and the players slumped dejectedly onto the benches. The place was as quiet as a morgue.

Some of the players said a few words which seemed to sum up the game very well. "Imagine that, hitting the post three times in the last 30 seconds of play!" was Brian McCann's comment. Leo 'The Cannon' Konyk chipped in with, "Did you see that guy holding Pete Constable on their last goal?" Konyk was referring to the seventh Carabin goal when one of the U of M defensemen grabbed Constable and dragged him to the boards and held him there for about five seconds until the Carabins scored.

Dick Baltzan and Jackie McMullan were sitting alone in a corner trying to figure out what they had to do to score a goal. Both played tremendous games, but the puck refused to roll for them around the Carabin nets. Len Sigurdson then called out, "Guess who we're playing Carnival night — we'll get them then." Then everything was quiet again as the players changed to their street clothes.

On Friday night the dressing room was a direct contrast as the jubilant players whooped it up after beating Varsity 2-1. Jackie McMullan who scored the winning goal was the centre of attraction and big Len Sigurdson stomped around the room denouncing the refs and the Toronto team.

Sigurdson became rather peeved at the officials early in the game when he received some very chippy penalties. Then in the second period when Varsity iced the puck, Sigurdson went back to pick it up and take it to the ref for the faceoff. When he was halfway to the blueline, he decided that the refs hadn't been too good to him, so he wheeled around and dumped the puck back into the corner. That little episode got "Sig" a 10 minute misconduct.

Dave Jackson of Varsity was supposed to have his big night as scouts from Boston and Chicago were in the stands to watch him play, but at times the Redmen made him look very bad. Early in the first period Ross Hughes walked around him easily and then Leo Konyk caught him with his head down and belted him with a terrific check. In an attempt to redeem himself Jackson tried a few rinklength dashes, but each time was stopped neatly by the Redmen defense.

Basketball

In a closely fought inter-city basketball tilt the McGill Juniors defeated the Montreal East "Y" Coeds at the Currie Gym. The first half of the game was relatively slow with the "Y" leading 13-10. But in the latter half McGill passes began to click and the Red and Whites pulled ahead to a 33-27 victory.

All the forwards fared quite evenly on the scoring sheet. Mary Ann McNab, Pat Nugent, and Sarah Sutcliff contributed six points apiece and the remainder of the points were made by the other forwards. By far the best shooting performance was turned in by Cathy McKenna of the "Y" who compiled 18 points.

This win for the Juniors enhances their chances for placing on top of the Inter-City league. As of now they have lost only one game. The Juniors seem to be following the path of the Senior Team, who have one more scheduled game. If they win this one against the YMCA on Thursday night our Senior coeds will have retained the city championship.

Riflery

On Thurs. Feb. 9 the last shot rang out over the rifle range bringing to a close the Intramural Riflery Meet. Five faculties were represented with the best turnout made by Physical Education with three teams. Post Grads were the winners with 531 points, followed very closely by Phys. Ed. IV with 521. Third place was taken by the Post Grad Nurses with 519.

Archery

The winner of the Intramural Archery Meet for beginners was Beecy Thomas B.Sc.11. She topped the field of entrants with 144 points.

On next Monday, another Intramural tournament will be held from 2:30 - 5:00 p.m. Entries will be in teams of two, with not more than one Intercollegiate player per team. Please sign up on the Athletics Notice Board in R.V.C.

DISSENSION IN REDMEN CAMP

Rumour has it that the ranks of the hockey Redmen are torn with dissension. The first inkling of the grave situation in the Redmen camp came from an article which appeared on the front page of yesterday's Daily.

In effect the story stated that one Kim Novak, of Hollywood fame, will present the Birks' Trophy to the captain of the winning team in the annual Winter Carnival game. In addition she will also kiss the captain of the team.

At present Dickie Baltzan is captain of the team, but the word is that he just might not be available for the game, owing to circumstances beyond his control. In that case we figure that either Pete Constable or Brian McCann, the alternate captains, will get the reward. McCann says he is the obvious choice as he is the team's leading scorer. On the other hand, Constable says that he is the veteran on the squad and should receive the kiss. The duel takes place behind the Engineering Building at 2 pm tomorrow.

Meanwhile, back at the field-house, subversive elements have concocted a plan whereby one of their clan will be the lucky fellow. Whether the chosen gent will be Len Sigurdson or Leo Konyk is unknown, but there is a slight suspicion that one of the footballers will dress for the game and use his football tactics to gain the upper hand.

Then there are the fellows in postgrad work, Brian and Jackie McMullan, Warren Allmand and Wally Emo who will recruit their followers to help them be in the favoured position. Meanwhile some of the undergrads are forming a coalition of their own and have made secret plans in an attempt to get in there first. Gord Currie, Ross Hughes, Doug Maule, Jimmy Grant and Dinny O'Shaughnessy are all thought to be members of the plot.

Rocky Robillard when informed of the growing dissension told a reporter that perhaps, if they win the game, he'll try to get the gal to kiss all the players (and the Daily reporter).

ATTENDANCE DOWN

Official figures as released by the MDHWA show that attendance figures for Redmen home hockey games is down 38.3% as compared with last year. Last year the Redmen drew 537 fans to their first two home games and 27 to the two games in Verdun. This year they have drawn 411 and 18 respectively. Reasons for the drop are that the Forum doesn't use as many usher's, the Redmen don't dress as many men and the ice cleaning crew's ranks have been depleted by 10%. The Daily has also cut down on the number of men it sends to each game.

Flint-eyed but Kindly Fellows

When a strike closed up all the banks in Eire a few years ago, pub owners and shopkeepers, struck with their receipts, were happy to cash cheques. Loan payments were stopped and the banks no longer hounded overdrawn customers. But the fun was soon over. The government had to suspend interest payments made through the Bank of Ireland. Rubber cheques began bouncing about and exporters, unable to arrange letters of credit, had to close up shop. Bankers came into new esteem. The Irish learnt that these gentlemen, who make money their business, are very useful fellows indeed.

At the Royal Bank, you'll find our managers happy to make themselves useful, whether it's opening an account or dishing out sage financial advice. They particularly like being pals with McGill students because they entertain the hope that some day you'll be in the chips and then you'll keep great wads of cash in the Royal Bank. There are six branches near McGill — Peel & Sherbrooke, St. Catherine & McGill College, St. Catherine & Stanley, Sherbrooke & Bleury, Sherbrooke & Guy and Sherbrooke & Fort. McGILL LL.M. DEGREE TO RCAF OFFICER

The degree of Master of Laws from McGill University has been conferred on Squadron Leader John T. Murchison, an RCAF officer at Air Defense Command Headquarters, St. Hubert, Que. He is the first air force officer to be so honored.

The thesis for which he received the degree opens up an entirely new and unique legal field and is titled "The Contiguous Air Space Zone in International Law." Plans are being made for the publication of the work, which will undoubtedly stand as the international authority on the subject.

In the thesis Squadron Leader Murchison attempts to justify, in the eyes of international law, the aircraft identification zones which have been set up in the skies surrounding this continent. All aircraft flying through these zones, as an essential aspect of the Canadian-U.S. air defense system, must identify themselves and submit to air force control when called upon to do so.

The identification zone of the high seas surrounding Canada is defined geographically and, naturally, takes in vast areas of wide open space. The United States zone is generally defined as one hour's flying time from the coasts, which would be many hundreds of miles, considering the flying speeds of today.

The zones are already in existence, and their being has never come to argument. S/L Murchison contends that Canada and the U. S. are legally entitled to maintain them. It is not solely an academic question as legal definition should keep pace with, or even anticipate changing conditions, and possession of the sky is a relatively new problem.

S/L Murchison was born in Summerside, P.E.I. He attended Acadia University and received his B. C. L. from the University of New Brunswick in 1941. Immediately after graduation he joined the RCAF.

"Calanus" Crew Speaks Tomorrow

Some former members of the crew of the "Calanus", a vessel which served as a base for a marine biological survey of Ungava Bay will give a short illustrated talk at the Franklin Society meeting on Wednesday, February 15 at 8:15 pm in the Walter Stewart room at the Union.

The survey was begun by Dr. Max Dunbar, associate professor of zoology, in 1947 in an attempt to find natural resources which could be exploited by the local Eskimo population. Since then, the "Calanus" has travelled extensively in and about Ungava Bay, Hudson's Bay, and Hudson Strait doing hydrographic and marine biological work. The talk will concern work done since 1947.

LPP Club Founder

Lectures On Marxism

Mr. John Switzman will give the third in a series of Marxist lectures "How Canada will achieve Socialism" today at 1 pm in the Union Clubroom.

Mr. Switzman is a McGill graduate and a member of the provincial committee. He is a founder of the L.P.P. club on the campus and was very active in debating here. He is a veteran of World War Two and has served overseas.

MARRIAGE SERIES TO END TONIGHT

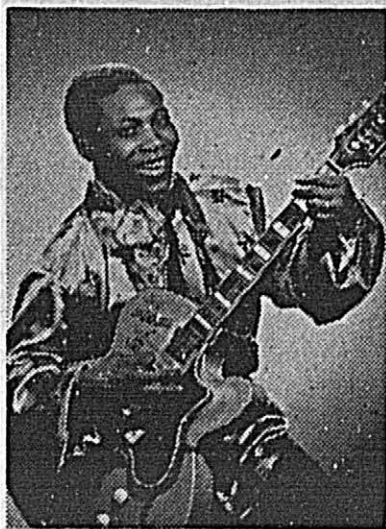

The third and last in series of ASUS sponsored marriage clinics will be held tonight in the Walter M. Stewart Room of the Union at 8:15 pm.

The subject of the clinic will be "Sex on Marriage". Dr. Alastair MacLeod, chief psychiatrist at the Mental Hygiene Institute and also on the McGill faculty will deliver the talk, to which all are invited.

Lord Caresser Feature Of Carnival Ball

Lord Caresser, "the roving lad from Trinidad", one of the few authentic Trinidadian Calypsonians, will be one of the entertainers at the Carnival Ball, to be held Saturday, February 18.

His original lyrics, "The Abdication", "The More They Try To

Lord Caresser

among young people, appeared at Moyse Hall under the auspices of SCOPE.

The first part of the recital proved to be a period of monotony, which included an unfeeling performance of the Sonata in B Flat Major, K 333 of Mozart, and a somewhat dry interpretation of Beethoven's Sonata in D, Opus 10 No. 3. Some of the great compositions by Mozart and Beethoven are familiar to every music lover, and it is possible that these earlier works could not stand up to the standard one is apt to set when judging a performance of their work.

Happily, the section of the recital following intermission was satisfying, to some extent. Mr. Engel seemed happy in his playing of Schumann's Fantasiestücke, Opus 12. Parts of this work were actually exciting. Some of the warmest playing of the evening came in here, and by feeling the music himself, the pianist proved capable of moving the listener.
